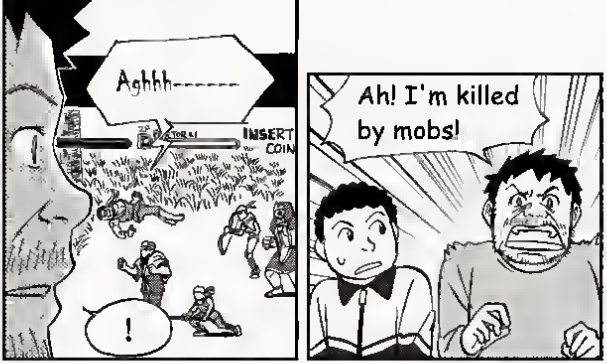
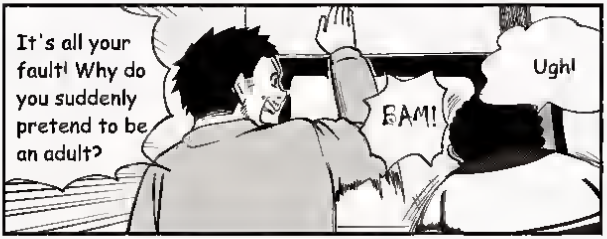
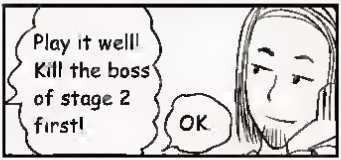
T/N Ironically China banned gaming consoles in 2000 (Production for exporting is allowed) Only in 2014 did it get relieved a bit

What would our future...
be like?







T/N: In Dynasty Warriors, your character tends to say 'Tesshou' Uchitotai!' or something similar after winning 'Uchitotai' means 'taken down', it has a Chinese transliteration of 吾去脫他衣, meaning 'I'll go to rip his/her clothes'

What're you doing!?

T/N:
The song Jun's father sung was the theme song of the famous Chinese TV drama series, Romance of the Three Kingdoms
Its lyrics is written in Ming Dynasty, by Yang Shen in 1524.
Translation was not my own work, but by Prof. Xu Yuanchong from Peking University.

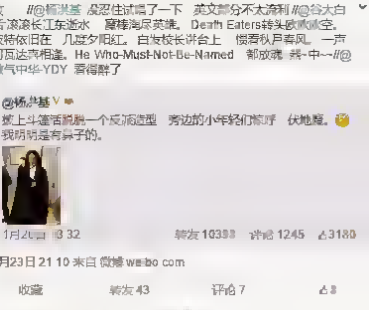
The song was originally sung by Yang Hongji, who has a rather interesting weibo (twitter-like service) recently. See below.

Screencap from Zcloud's weibo
Help_ ///@Yang Hongji I can't help trying, the English part didn't go well///@Gu (Some Harry Potter parody of the lyrics)



Yang Hongji's original weibo
I look like a villain in a cape, a young man beside me shouted Voldemort! (Angry) I have a nose.
